

LAVA ROCK

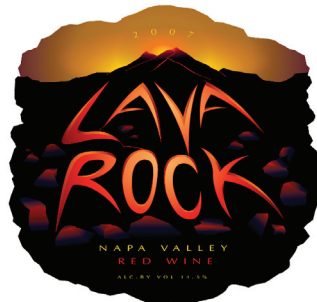

Napa Valley is flanked by a series of extinct volcanic peaks starting at Mt. Veeder and running north to Mt. St. Helena, with volcanic activity still seen today in our famous hot springs and geothermal vents. Millions of years ago when the volcanoes were active, eruptions distributed minerals and ash far and wide. The valley soil today contains a large volume of volcanic lava and ash which contribute to the uniqueness of Napa Valley wines. Our inaugural release captures the special geological history of the Napa Valley, wild with flavors and characters that come from its volcanic soils and unique growing conditions.

Lava Rock's Napa Valley red table wine is a blend of Merlot and Syrah grapes. Both grapes make respectable and world renowned wines from old and new world vineyards, but we wanted to make a fun, drinkable and yet complex red wine that shows off the characteristics of each variety.

100% Napa Valley, California Grapes
